

It may be time to get screened.

Do it for your loved ones. Do it for you.

There's no better time than now to talk to your primary care provider about your options for a colorectal cancer screening.

Why?

- Prevention is the best medicine – it can save your life.
- Knowing your test result provides peace of mind or may identify an issue before it becomes severe.
- You may have screening options, including in the comfort and privacy of your home.
- It's covered with your health care plan when prescribed by your doctor.

The American Cancer Society now recommends a colorectal cancer screening for individuals who are age 45 and older.

Read more at mibluesperspectives.com/colorectal-care. And then call your primary care provider for guidance or to schedule an appointment.

Nonprofit corporations and independent licensees of the Blue Cross and Blue Shield Association